The government is taking steps for defence in Shanghai. During the last few days there has been much activity around the arsenal. The situation is regarded here as most alarming.

It is generally admitted that unless the government succeeds speedily in dealing a decisive blow to its adversaries the revolution will spread of its own momentum over a great belt of own momentum over a great belt of territory across Central China.

Refugees of all nationalities continu Refugees of all nationalities continue to flock into Shanghai from points up the Yangtze river. They all agree that while the general appearance of things is quiet, sympathy everywhere is with the revolutionists, and support is being given the agents of the new government. Business is absolutely stagnant even in the cities on the lower river, and a commercial depression in Shanghai is complete. A large number of Americans from

The reason is that there are trouble-some problems at home.

There are two great "anti" cam-paigns going on at present, one against Home Rule in Ulster, and another against Church Disestablishment in Wales.

It is amusing to note how the defenders of the Welsh establishment are constantly engaged in the arduous task of running two contradictory arguments at the same time. To the Welsh people they represent the establishment church in Wales with a thoroughly national concern, while at the same time they are striving to excite English churchmen to join in an agitation against the Welsh national demand for disestablishment on the emand for disestablishment round that the Weish church is only local branch of the English church, and it would be most unjust as they ontend, to single out for separate eatment four dioceses in the province or Canterbury.

In the campaign against Home Rule the story about the measure having been twice defeated at the polls is being revived and the ted out as valuable argument.

At a Belfast meeting the other day one of the spellbinders who want the people of Ulster to fight rather than pay taxes imposed by an Irish parlia-ment, said:

> THINKING THEMES BY DR. FRANK CRANE

Whenever you hear a remark that has become a platitude, a bromidion and is never disputed by anybody, you idiotic as a man's starched cuffs, col-lar and shirt-bosom.

As for trousers, which we boast to be so superior in fitness and sense to the feminine skirt, let me put you down with just one shattering ques-tion, to-wit, namely: Why is it that men, whenever they wish to put on Dignity, or show Power and Author-ty always put on a woman's dress? Dignity, or show Power and Authority, always put on a woman's dress?
When the priest or bishop or pope serves at mass, when the parson preaches in the pulpit, when the Judge mounts the bench to reward and punish, when the king is crowned, whoù the Worshipful Master or Noble Grand of a lodge performs his ceremonies, in short when any man anywhere wishes to be impressive and Grand, he conceals his trousers with a woman's robe.

The fact is that almost all of male apparel, just because it is fixed and unalterable, is crystalized and set absurdity. The only sensible styles are the styles that change.

Manitoba, and worked for the city during which period he was struck on the head by the mechanism of a rock drill, after which he appears to have become mentally deranged. However, on leaving the city's employ he went to the engagement at Tod Inlet. On October 3 he came into the city, and took a room at the Blue Post Saloon, Johnson street, from which he disappeared on the following morning. He seems to have been suffering from delusions, as he complained of Chinamen pursuing him, and the body was found ursuing him, and the body was found under circumstances which point to suicide. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Hanna & Thomson, Pandora avenue.

SIZE OF LOTS

Quarter Acre and Larger

Beautifully wooded, canoeing, boating, fishing, bathing and all aquatic sports. Good soil on many lots. Street paying has been started. All the advantages of ocean fronts without the bleak winds A DELIGHTFUL PLACE TO HAVE A HOME

The above illustration gives some conception of how beautifully wooded these waterfronts are. They must, however, be seen to be fully appreciated.

MAKE YOUR APPOINTMENT TO SEE THE LOTS NOW

OU HAVE OFTEN THOUGHT that you would like to have a nice homesite on the Gorge waterfront, or on beautiful Portage Inlet. Perhaps you have decided that the first opportunity that presented itself for you to get a nice strip of land in this vicinity you would take it. Your opportunity is here now. In OUR PORTAGE INLET SUBDIVISION we can offer you some of the choicest homesites ever offered to the people in Victoria. This property is divided into QUARTER ACRE BLOCKS; some of the waterfronts are much larger. Many of them are beautifully wooded besides commanding a charming view of the Inlet and surrounding country. The scenic attractions of Portage Inlet are too well known to need further description. It is enough to say that there is no place in or around Victoria where canoeing, bathing, motor boating, etc., can be indulged in with a greater degree of safety and pleasure than the vicinity of Portage Inlet. It is our intention to grade all the streets in this subdivision so as to afford easy access to all lots. This work is already under way. Even if you do not intend to build a home in this vicinity at once it will pay you to secure one of these fine large homesites at the prices now asked. Many of these lots are within a short distance of the new Saanich tram line under construction. As the supply of these waterfronts is limited and many people have already investigated this property it will pay you to act quickly. The waterfronts will not last long.

Bellingham, Wash., Oct. 23.—One man was blown into fragments, five others were instantly killed and horribly mutilated and three others were seriously injured as the result of an accidental explosion of dynamite on the Bellingham and Skagit interurban railway grade seven miles south of Bellingham Saturday afternoon.
Following is the list of dead: Nick Popovich, Austrian, pit man; John Lindquist, pit man; A. F. Lockwood of Bellingham, powder foreman; James McGillan, Stillwater, Wis., general foreman; M. L. Green, pit man.
The injured: Earl Clevenger, fireman, leg and eye injured; John Olson, pit man, leg crushed; Louis Huggs steam shovel worker, leg crushed.
The men were working in a small cut, and the accident is said to have been due to their own carelessness. The steam shovel was just about to begin work in the cut when it was discovered that two cases, or 200 pounds of dynamite, placed there a month before and supposed to have been exploded, was still intact. The men were set to work to pick it out to make way for the steam shovel.

A moment before the explosion they had been warned against striking too hard or too near the rock in which dynamite was imbedded. Popovich, the Austrian, is alleged to have been the

When the Foresters and Wests lined up at the North Ward park on Satur-day afternoon for their first engage-ment of the season a hard struggle was ne attracted quite a large number game attracted quite a large number of fans. Although the Wests are the holders of the championship and the Foresters did not make a particularly bright showing last season, both teams were conceded to have an equal chance in view of past performances this season. But hardly had the game commenced when it was seen that the green-shirts were a different aggregacommenced when it was seen that the green-shirts were a different aggregation from that which was so easily defeated by the Garrison a few weeks ago, and that the lodgemen were doomed to a severe defeat. The result proved the truth of this, for before the final whistle ended the agony the Wests had compiled a score of 7 goals, while the Foresters had only succeeded in beating Goalkeeper Robertson once, and that by a rather flukey chance. The superiority of the champions was all the more clearly shown in the first half of the game by the fact that the Foresters had the advantage of the grade. Despite this the ball was almost continually in the losers' territory, and the few attacks they did make were more the result of individual than of combined effort. These attempts at ag-

Jimmy Petticrew and Wright each added one to the Wests' score before half time, the latter bulging the net from a rebound after Costello had blocked prettily. The Foresters' lone tally was annexed in the first half a few minutes before the whistle blew. Ingles drove the ball at Robertson from a long distance out, and, rushing to block it, the goal keeper fell, the ball passing through out of his reach to the initial period, and was forced to spend the rest of the game between the posts, where it was because the posts, where it was thought, that he would not have much to de. Several of the Foresters' best men were certainly not in any kind of shape for a hard game, and, in consequence, were outplayed by their checks at all times. In addition Ferris, their left half, did not turn up, and his substitute was a joke as a football player. These extenuating circumstance acted as a soothing salve to the outraged feelings of the Foresters, and although their pride had been lowered for the time being they left the field full of determination to take an early revenge. The first goal was scored by Sherritt, inside right for the Wests, who received a pass from Whittaker in the very mouth of the goal. CITY WITHIN POWER.

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—According to judgment handed down by Mr. Justice Morrison, the resolution passed by the city council on August 14 last, authorizing the pulling down of premises at 514 to 516 Cordova street, on the ground that they were a menace to public safety, was a perfectly legal resolution, and that the building in question must be razed forthwith.

With the passing of the resolution by the city council, J. W. Horne, owner of the buildings, secured an injunction against the city, restraining the city engineer from putting the council's order into effect. motto of civilized enlightenment, and therefore it is not so very strprising to learn that the children of Cadboro Bay school, on falling to achieve the recognition they thought they merited, have gone out on strike. There is someone in the school whose presence is regarded as undestrable in a purely educational sense, and having failed by the adoption of less militant means to obtain their end, they have resorted (with the advice and sanction of their parents presumably) to the orthodox lactics of "striking." There are many historical examples of "striking" schoolooys, a few of which are now incorporated in the "classic" novels of England, but this is surely the first case of an organized strike that has affected any of the schools on Vancouverlal about? What is the cause of this spirit, of revolt that has "trimmed" the little benches, of their former occupants and created an atmosphere of funereal peace where the warm breath of irrepressible youth was won't to filter in cackling speeches to the skies? It is said that only a small minority of the pupils are still in attendance, and that before the others return a change must be made in the personnel of the teaching staff.

The first setback was in 1683 when the Porte, as the Turkish government is called, took up the cause of Tokolyi, the leader of the Hungarians in their revolt against Leopold I. of Austria. The Moslem invasion rolled up to the gates of Vienna.

The fate of central Europe hung in the balance, but, after two months of siege, King John Soblieski, heading a Polish and German army, went to the rescue and in a heroic battle put the Torks to flight.

Austria, Poland and Venice then made an onslaught upon Turkey. They drove the Turks out of Austria, Moladavia, Wallachia and Morea. In 1695 Peter the Great wrested Azov from them and the Austrians annihilated a Turkish army at Zenta. In the peace of Karlowitz, in 1699, Turkey was forced to give up all of Hungary between the Danube and the Theiss.

In the early part of the sevententh century Turkey again captured Moldavia and Morea. In 1715, however, they were beatern by Prince Euzene of Austria, who forced them to give up a part of Servia and Austria. DUKE IS RIGHT MAN IN RIGHT PLACE

Born Under Lucky Star New Governor-General Begins Vice-Regal Task

The Duke of Connaught leaves Eng nd to-day to take over the duties of Jovernor-General of Canada, says the idon Daily Mail of October 6.

Never was moment more auspicious ner man more fitted for the task. That iccroy is indeed born unger a lucky star who opens a new volume in the history of his country. To most is history, of his country. To most is given only a new chapter. The Duke of Connaught has the fortune to go to Canada after an election which has brought into power not merely a new government but a new party. For it is a new party, and not the old Conservative party, that has been welded under the hammer of reciprocity with the United States. Loyalty to the Empire is a quality common to Libthe United States. Loyalty to the Empire is a quality common to Lib-erals and Conservatives alike, and the rictory for the flag is more than a friumph of political economists. It is the expression of an imperial senti-ment ready to make sacrifice of in-

In another respect the Duke of Con-naught is fortunate. He succeeds a governor-general who has strengthened the personal influence and widened and deepened the popularity official representative of the of the official representative of the crown in Canada. Earl Grey has the invaluable art of making friends and winning confidence. He has the in-stinct as well as the manner, that makes men brothers out on the prairie. makes men prothers out on the prairie, and he carries this solvent of society into the city. Canadians esteem the quality of comradeship and respond to it heartily. And they will find that the Duke of Connaught has it from the Duke of Connaught has it from nature and uses it without effort. Though born in the purple he has little laste for its formalities, as the soldier discovered when told by the duke that a little more pipeclay and a little less royal highness' would be better."

Here is a true story that goes to the cot of the whole matter and reveals he sympathy of character like a flash. I young subaltern who was putting a company through drill managed to get hem into an awful muddle. Have company through drill manages to be them into an awful muddle. "Have you any idea what your men are supposed to be doing?" asked the duke. The youngster safuted and with a confiding smile, replied: "Not the slightest sir. Have you?" This was not "cheek" or the native assurance of a subaltern, who would never dream of such familiarity with his commanding officer. It was an involuntary acknowledsment of the sympathetic understanding which puts the Duke of Connaught into instant harmony with his surroundings and his associates. his surroundings and his associates. His Royal Highness has other qualities that Canadians know how to value. He has tact and industry and enthusiasm. When this appointment was first hinted at someone in Ottawa thought it necessary to warn the Duke that the duties of Governor-General, are more onerous than ornamental. One cannot help wondering where this correspondent got the idea that any member of the British Royal Family is a "shirker" or has ever had an opportunity of cultivating the pleasures of idleness. If the Duke of Connaught had been inclined to ornamental rather than onerous duties he would not have renounced his succession to his brother the Duke of Edinburgh as Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha; nor would he have resigned the Mediterranean command because it was a sineure. Even in a toyal Duke it required courage as well as conscience to resign an office of dignity and profit that was the special creation of the government. But his active temperament not less than his public spirit would not let him remain idic-in Malta.

is travels like a true companion. The record of the services of the Duke of Connaught from the day-forty-three years ago—when he entered the Koyal Engineers shows that he is a worker. He has passed through every branch of the army, and, despite the difficulties which a member of a Royal principle of the grant of the cumstances, he has twee tasks active operations. In 1870-at the age of twenty-he went to Canada as a soldier to suppress the Fenian Raid, and active operations. In 1870—at the age of twenty—he went to Canada as a soldier to suppress the Fenian Raid, and in 1882, as a major-general, he was with the expeditionary force at the battle of Tel-ci-Kebir in Egypt. Twice he has held a command in India, twice in Eggland, and once in Ireland. In 1962 he was raised to the rank of field-marshal; two years later he was inspector-general of the forces; in 1967 he was appointed commander-in-chief and high commissioner in the Mediterranean, and held the post until his resignation in 1969. Only a born soldier and a bard and conscientious worker could have filled these responsible positions and left behind an enduring reputation for capacity and devotion to duty.

The Duke is a traveller and a sportsman, and Canadians like a man to be both. His wanderings have carried him to most parts of the world, and every-where, wild or civilized, he is remembered. The secret of his popularity is his frankness and manilness. He never patronizes—not even officially, as the story goes, at the Horse Guards when his Royal Highness askedbee. Goeff who had just been presented to him, some of them tedious enough to justify a display of boredom, But the Duke of Connaught is never bored. He is clavaly human and interested in the business in hand. It has even been aid of him that he looks as if he really liked laying foundation stones. And if he can take pains in small things he can perform great, as South Africa testified last year when his Royal Highness opened a new parliament and a new era.

Canadians are eager to welcome the royal Governor-General. They acceled the position of the form meningitis following an attack of sunstroke, which occurred while he was an accident under the Workmen's Compensation Act, and gave a verdiet for the full amount claimed.

There are two paragraphs of interest o Victorians, which we reproduce. The sublication of the entire letter is im-sossible owing to the limitations of pace. The excerpts read as follows:

During my travels through the Do dnion I conversed with many people many subjects. Of course Cana on many subjects. Of course Cana-dian politics were much in their minds, as they were in the midst of a general election, to be fought mainly on reci-procity, which, if carried, will probably bring about the commercial absorption of Canada by the United States. At the present time American farmers are pouring into Canada, selling their farms south of the boundary line at 1100 (£20) are acre, and purchasing. $100 (£20) an acre, and purchasin farms in Canada at $20 (£4) an acre in Canada at $29 (24) an arc, in which they can grow better wheat, he naval question did not appear to terest the people as much as it ight, and as I should have hoped it ould. Every press representative in the Dominion to whom I gave an interew endexyred to get me to get the to riew endeavored to get me to state m n on the subject of the Canadia My reply invariably was to the then it followed that the fourteenth amendment was a dead letter, and the intention of the law-makers set at naught. A large number of people, possibly a majority, including the writer, believed that the civil rights legislation was mistaken policy, but that Justice Harlan's construction was correct.

In the Engineers hall, in which it was held, the one thing that hung on the walls was the map of the British Isles, and the whole tenor of the speeches delivered was strongly advocating that nothing should be done in Canada which could in any way weaken the tie which binds the There is, however, one consistent line that may be followed through all of them, i.e., his adherence to the law as he understood it to be. He believed that the separate indeway weaken the tie which binds the Dominion to the Mother Country and the Empire. It is well worth recording that in the passage leading to the door King George in his naval uniform

There was nothing technical about him. He brought to the contemplation of a question a broad comprehension that took in the whole matter. He used no side lights for the purpose of developing the more popular side of a question and no judicial miscroscope in order to determine some defect in the law.

Next to Miller he was the greatest jurist who has occupied the supreme bench since Marshall. As time recedes he will grow in stature.
